

End-of-Life Management and Circularity

The "Environmental Design Operation Specification" defines recycling design. When designing products, we fully consider factors such as the possibility and value of recycling as well as the possibility of reuse of components.